5 Things to Do When The Powers Are Out Today was a beautiful day...and if the squirrels in my apartment complex had decided to trap me somewhere and bump me into the metal round thing (which is built on a box of nails) I'd have been eating cat food this afternoon. So make sure to thank your zodiac sign for your health and the world will be a better place for it. Go be nuts in the park for the day. Raise a glass of wine to your favorite higher dimensional beings. Worship the sun. Praise the stars. These are not things you do when the power's out, they are things you do when the power's out. And if not today...then start doing them tomorrow, have fun with it, laugh and smile. But do them.The Sun reported

What's new in The Alien Cube:

's Secret The Immortal's Secret is a 2008 psychological horror film directed by James Wan and co-written by Leigh Whannell and Wan. The film stars Eric Bana, Rob Pattinson, Uma Thurman, Milan and Wallace Langham, and tells the story of an eccentric scientist who is the last of his kind, and pursues immortality for his wife and son. The film was released in the United States on June 15, 2008. Plot The story begins with scientist Michael King (Eric Bana) working on a project, called the Transgenic Growth Stimulation ("T.G.S.") protocol, as research for his graduate thesis. The T.G.S. protocol is a program that affects cells in a living organism, and much like in eugenics, is the only form of medicine that can result in a full genetic makeover and make one's age approximately 10 years younger for ten years. Michael's seemingly successful results are recorded by a group of criminal teenagers, who are carrying out a robbery at the same lab. The experiment results in Mike's body going into shock, and his heart stops. The teens, sporting masks and pants with studs, enter the lab and attempt to steal the T.G.S. experiment. Dr. King narrowly escapes his death by ditching his body in a bathtub with the oxygen removed, and the experiment becomes stalled. He flees the lab in his vehicle with his son Paul (Wallace Langham) in the back seat. The exact nature of a T.G.S. experiment is unknown, and Michael is not sure if he has the means of reviving Paul. After Paul picks up a police uniform from a policeman, Michael then snatches a black satanic mask from an evil-looking man at a gas station, and drives to the nearby town of Rushville. As Michael is about to be pulled over for speeding, Paul gets kidnapped by the mask-wearing man. Michael tries to focus on getting Paul back, but cannot, as he and his son are also victims of a bungled experiment. Michael and Paul wake up in the same lab as before, this time with no memory about who or what they are. They find an adult version of Paul is also with them. The adult Paul is scared, and he now looks like Michael. The adult Paul informs them that there are three others with them, who are being controlled by the thugs who tried to
