This article focuses on the basics of using Photoshop to create images and edit photos. No special knowledge of computer graphics or image editing is required to edit photos successfully; you don't have to be a Photoshop guru. However, a basic understanding of Photoshop's functions will help you make images that are cleaner, brighter, and more impactful. Viewing in the Camera There is a fundamental difference in the way computers and humans view images. The way a human sees is to observe the colors and shapes in a scene rather than to see colors and shapes in an image. Computers, on the other hand, have to see things very differently. Computers process images as collections of pixels of varying intensity and color. They don't really see things directly, although they can approximate shapes and colors in images. There is a program called the Eye of the Beholder (EOTB), originally a product that was licensed for use in some programs, that allows you to see what a computer sees when rendering an image. It's worth noting that it can make the difference between a photo that is a bit too dark and a photo that is too light, too blown out and too dull. Because Photoshop uses pixels, having an EOTB program can be helpful to see how your changes are affecting the way a computer renders an image. It's a bit like testing your final image on a computer display versus a real print; an EOTB program allows you to see how the rendering of an image is affected by scaling and brightness. Photoshop Help Files While the advanced features of Photoshop are beyond the scope of this guide, many have a knack for finding them. Q: How to sort a single column of a 2D array using a reference array? I have two arrays. One has the names of the people in a class and the other is a reference array of a given number of people. I need to sort the first array based on the names in the reference array, and then the reference array is sorted based on the result. I don't know how to do this. For example: studentNames[0] = "Joe Smith" studentNames[1] = "Joe Smith" studentNames[2] = "Joe Smith" ... studentNames[100] = "Joe Smith" studentIDs[0] = "S01" studentIDs[1] = "S01" studentIDs[2] = "S01" ... studentIDs[100] = "S01" fNames = ["Joe Smith", "Samantha Adams", "Mary Jacoby", "John Runyon"] fIDs = ["S01", "S02", "S03", "S04", "S05", "S06", "S07", "S08", "S09", "S10", "S11", "S12", "S13", "S14", "S15", "S16", "S17", "S18", "S19", "S20", "S21", "S22", "S23", "S24", "S25", "S26", "S27", "S28", "S29", "S30", "S31", "S32", "S33", "S34", "S35", "S36", "S37", "S38", "S39", "S40", "S41", "S42", "S43", "S44", "S45", "S46", "S47", "S48", "S49", "S50", "S51", "S52", "S53", "S54", "S55", "S56", "S57", "S58", "S59", "S60", "S61", "S62", "S63", "S64", "S65", "S66", "S67", "S68", "S69", "S70", "S71", "S72", "S73", "S74", "S
