Each person has some items such as E(theItem, B, D, C). Each connection (an edge) is between two people such as A has a connection to B and also C. I want to find out the id of the nodes (A,B,C,D,E) that are connected to (B,D,C) node such that I can store it in a variable. For example, if I have this list

A,B,C,D,E and B is connected to D and C, then I want to be able to assign the index id of (A,B,C,D,E) to be where idOfNodesConnectedTo(B,D,C) is the id of the nodes that are connected to (B,D,C) I have seen some queries about listing all nodes connected to a node, but I do not want that. I want to be able to get the id of the nodes that are connected to a node. Here are examples of the data I have and the data I want to store.

nodeList = [A,B,C,D,E] itemList =

[E(TheItem,B,D,C), E(anotherItem,A,B,C),

E(yetAnotherItem,A,B,C)] As you can see, B is connected to D and C, and A is connected to B.

So the result should be idOfNodesConnectedTo(B,D,C) == 1 (id of nodes that are connected to (B,D,C) Now, I don't want that (idOfNodesConnectedTo(B,D,C) == 1) because it doesn't answer my keeping the chaos under control. People jammed the streets, shouting slogans, honking their horns and breaking into a run when a group of protesters decided to take a break and hopped onto the cars that suddenly appeared in the narrow streets. A number of parked cars soon contained up to 10 or 20 people. Outside one of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs buildings in Seongdong district, a small crowd gathered around a policeman. “There are too many people here,” one protester complained. “Policemen should be enforcing order, not making this kind of protest,” said a female protester. By late morning, when another large protest was announced for noon, the police seemed to have no idea what to do. However, by late afternoon as thousands of protesters filled the streets, both police and protesters appeared to have reached a truce, with officers on motorcycles “showing support” for the protesters, while protesters held up a banner declaring “Thank you for all of your protection.💎”
