To achieve this goal, it is essential to identify the molecular parameters that contribute to this hierarchy. We propose to focus on two parameters that we hypothesize are important in determining the peptide-induced T cell activation hierarchy: the peptide binding affinities (Pabs) and peptide T cell receptor (pTcR) binding affinities (pKi). The goal of this proposal is to investigate the inter-relationships between T cell activation by high affinity and low affinity peptides. The function of the pTcR, pMHC, and co-receptors in TCR-mediated signal transduction will be investigated by using quantitative biochemical assays and cell functional assays. The strategy is to develop pTcR and pMHC chimeras. Chimeras will be constructed from two receptors that bind either peptide with high or low affinity, thus allowing us to compare the biochemistry and cell biological function of T cell activation mediated by the two types of chimera.[Treatment of salivary calculi. Q: Minimum of a function with special structure? Consider  $f \in C([0,1] \times [0,1])$  and  $f(x,y) \geq 0$  for every  $x,y \in [0,1]$ . Define  $g: [0,1] \times [0,1] \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$  by:
$$g(x,y) = \begin{cases} f(x,y) & \text{if } x \leq y \\ 0 & \text{if } x > y \end{cases}$$
 Is it true that the minimum of  $f$  (i.e.  $\inf f$ ) equals  $\inf g$  for every  $f \in C([0,1] \times [0,1])$ ? I've tried to make a proof by contradiction, and even done a few calculations, but I'm stuck and I have no clue on where to start. A: Such a function does not necessarily attain its minimum at every point. Consider, for example,  $f(x,y) = xy$ . Then,  $g(x,y) = xy$  for  $x > y$ . If  $g$  attains its minimum at  $(a,b) \neq (0,0)$  in that set of points, then  $f$  attains its minimum at  $(0,0)$ , which contradicts the hypothesis. A similar argument works for  $f(x,y) = -xy$  if we take points  $(0,y)$  with  $y > 0$  instead. As the next chapter of the Human Rights Commission of Pakistan (HRCP) begins, the commission is faced with a unique challenge. It faces the reality of a country that has lost many of its human rights activists. The commission, which has always been at the forefront of holding state and non-state actors accountable to their duties under international law, is aware that it needs to remain vigilant, and it cannot afford to lose its people. The fall out Last week, in an address to the HRCP, the High Commissioner for Human Rights, Rupert Colville, said, "What has become crystal clear over the last two years is that this is not a movement that you can take for
