Watt is ineligible for the offseason workouts, the team announced Wednesday. He has been limited to the Texans' voluntary minicamp in previous years and will miss this week's mandatory minicamp as he continues to recover from offseason ankle surgery. Watt's ankle initially caused him to miss the Texans' voluntary offseason workouts, and he was limited in the team's voluntary minicamp last week. "It's hard for me to practice (but) I'm making the best of it," Watt said last week after practice. "It doesn't feel great. Every day, it gets better. I feel stronger than I ever have in the offseason, so I'm sure I'll feel better in the end."Academics at the University of Strasbourg have unearthed a 13th-century manuscript about the life of Martin Luther which is said to bear his signature. The manuscript, which contains the teachings of Luther on the 95 Theses, was recently given to the city of Strasbourg by the Library of the Catholic Theological Faculty in Mainz. It is believed to have been written at the end of 1433, and would have been owned by a lawyer in Wurzburg. Luther lived in the Holy Roman Empire capital city from 1517-1543, after fleeing to the city for fear of arrest for the 1517 posting of 95 Theses. The manuscript was found in the University of Strasbourg 04aeff104c
