The reason is that I need to insert videos in the pages and in that case, I need to have a new frame. How can I achieve this? A: Create a new helper method in a helper file in lib/framehelper.rb and use it as follows: def new_frame respond_to do |format| format.html end end Call it in the view as usual: The file should look like this: # app/helpers/frame_helper.rb def new_frame respond_to do |format| format.html end end The above is not a real example. Just substitute the block you want and you're good to go. Q: How to output json in swagger in rails 6 I am using Ruby on Rails 6. I am new to swagger and I have a controller API's. AlternativeTo is a free service that helps you find better alternatives to the products you love and hate. The site is made by Ola and Markus in Sweden, with a lot of help from our friends and colleagues in Italy, Finland, USA, Colombia, Philippines, France and contributors from all over the world. That's right, all the lists of alternatives are crowd-sourced, and that's what makes the data powerful and relevant.I'm a noob on the lawn care side of things. My first year and I'm learning the ropes as I go. I bought a ROTO-ROTATOR, as I can do without a windrower, but have been hand cutting and bringing in weeds, etc... The Roto-Rotator is really nice to have for areas around the house where it's not convenient to walk. I just turn the thing on and walk away, leave it to do the work, while I do something else, like a long walk or watch a tv show. I've got over 100 sq. feet that I've gotten done and I'm curious to what everyone else does for the same level of area. I'm going to guess that any area over 200 sq. ft. is a multi-pass application. I've been looking at different software packages to help plan my application. I've seen programs that require input for a certain number of passes, and some that only allow for a certain number of passes. I'm planning on growing some cover crops, so I'm not planning on having a lot of repeated passes. I would love any insight on how others plan on using their rotary set up. If you've been doing this for a while you should know how much you've already used. When the season started, how many times did you walk the whole area. And the old adage about too many cooks in the kitchen applies. I've been doing the Roto-Rotator for the last 3 years. The amount of weeds I go through are amazing. I keep my machine running for over 6 hrs during the day and if I'm on a slower day I'll run it for 8 hrs. The area of coverage is really determined by your rotator, for example my machines cover about 2000 ft. of turf. I use a rotator that I believe is around 16" wide by 56" high with 8 rotations. I have almost all of my weeds cleaned out and ready to cut. That's over 400 weeds that I've gone through. As far as software goes, I use Curbos Turf Manager. It allows you to quickly view your program and pre-program your rotator to work a certain area, day or time. FWIW, I live in a
