The Enhance image function comes with some remarkable options. You can eliminate elements of an image, such as subjects with eyes, ears, or main features, that you don't want to see. The Best Candidate function makes you create set of outlines for the image (in grids as well as graphics-free). You can even add voice-over narration to the selection. When you do this, the sound and text appear on a separate layer, so you can adjust them independently. Additionally, you can apply Edge Detection, Red Eye Correction, and blur or sharpen. There are also several presets for different effects, including Creative Edge, HDR, Pop Art, and Black & White. Also, the program includes several advanced tools, such as Local Adjust (to fix an adjustment), Structure Picker (to select only the elements in the image), and the Miniature Effect. The image changes in real time as you work. It actually becomes a live selection tool. If you don't see exactly the way your image will appear, there's a rapid way to correct it with the Eraser tool. (You can also use the Crop tool to adjust the image to your exact liking.) There's also a Temporal Preset feature, which makes it possible to create special effects by feeding the program new photos to use. I found this to be a useful way to create realistic-looking elements, such as bluish skies, reddish skin, and the like. Very handy. If you want to turn this image-editing tool into a digital darkroom, the Options and Effects menus will help you out. The Effects menu gives you choices such as Effects, Structure, Shadows, Levels, LUTs, and Adjustment.

Some people learn by doing, and others learn by reading, and I am one of those who learns by understanding. With yet other people you can do well by just watching what they do and then copying what they do, but I was never one who could do well by just watching or copying. For me it took a lot of self-education over the years, and reading books, articles, and watching them to be able to do what is required for my profession. Profile with Services provides you with the opportunity to make a quick change to a particular profile (e.g. movement of graphic elements like an alignment). You can even make more extensive changes through the use of collection in conjunction with the Profile Manager. Although you can't create "profiles" on a, you can still make the design that you have created into a "profile" that you can use with any of your other applications. For example, you could make a phone number that you use for each client into a profile that you could use to quickly align the various photos of contact info for each client. Shadow & Highlight options than can be used as a Sepia Color Layers style to tone down your photographs. You can also use these Sepia Color Layers to enhance your images by adding a light Sepia color tint. It's really quite simple. Sepia is a recipe that is easy to use to help you in creating your own desired look. It includes a range of colors to choose from - including 'crinkling' or 'tint' variations of the color. It's also a fun way to add the look of vintage photos to your photos. 933d7f57e6
